medical education program increased the number of seats⁴ from 35 to 40; the state of Idaho and the University of Utah School of Medicine have a contract that ensures 10 Idaho residents are accepted to the School of Medicine each year (University of Utah School of Medicine, 2021). ICOM will graduate its first class in 2022 (COM, 2021). Each ICOM class has approximately 150 students (COM, 2021).

The number of medical residency slots in Idaho is approximately 140. Including residents and fellows, the number approaches 180; the number of residents and fellows is an important benchmark. Over 54% of practitioners who completed medical residency training are practicing in the state of residency training (data from 2008 through 2017; AAMC, 2021). The Idaho WWAMI program's rate of return (WWAMI Idaho graduates returning to practice in the state) is over 50%. The percentage of physicians retained in Idaho when considering both undergraduate and graduate medical education is 69%.

In 2020, health care in Idaho constituted about $6.3 billion in gross state product (GSP). This included $5.3 billion in wages and benefits and 91,511 in total direct jobs (Table 12). The health care sector

Idaho's health care spending centers around indigent care and Idaho's poor Medicaid spending. The total Medicaid cost in Idaho FY2019 was $2.162 billion, of which the federal government covered 71.2% and Idaho 28.8%, or $623.3 million. Of those covered in Idaho, 14% were elderly, 47% disabled, 13% adult, and 26% children. The 2014 average cost per Medicaid enrollee was $5,257 for fully enrolled and partial-enrolled beneficiaries and $5,452 for full
